FREUD

In this series we take a look at the creative minds at the turn of the century whose names are readily thrown about in sixth forms and student common rooms but whose thought and emphasis are not always fully appreciated.

Freud is associated with dreams, sex, anxiety, aggression and the power of the unconscious mind. But what did Freud really say? How far have his writings been accepted or rejected? These are the issues and questions that the Bishop of St. Andrews writes about, and in an accurate and lively account of Freud's thinking he also provides insight to enable the reader to understand himself.

Michael Hare Duke is the Bishop of St. Andrews in the Scottish Episcopal Church.
