Kulothungan Poems Some Reflections

Deftly blending his humanism, scientific spirit and creative instincts, Kulothungan has given form and substance to his inner vibrations and anguish in his poems. The world we encounter in his poems is rooted in the soil; anchored on some basic values; based on an urge to irrigate his land with the life-giving waters of science and technology; and driven by a determination to develop his dear Tamil as a potent instrument to face the knowledge century. When a creative work is animated by intensity and authenticity, it assumes dignity and grace. This is an essential hallmark of Kulothungan's poetic world.
