- * The New Shakespeare provides a text (a play to a volume) of all Shakespeare's plays and poems which takes full account of the scholarship — bibliographical, historical and linguistic — of the twentieth century, together with all the material necessary to bring the student or the general reader to the fullest understanding and enjoyment of what Shakespeare wrote.
- * Each volume contains
  - the text of the play, free from annotation and clearly printed
  - full notes, both textual and explanatory
  - an introduction by the editors
  - a stage-history
  - a valuable glossary of difficult words and phrases
- * The New Shakespeare, begun in 1921, has been edited throughout by the doyen of modern Shakespeare scholars, Dr John Dover Wilson, initially in partnership with Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, and latterly with the help of other distinguished Shakespeare scholars — Professor G. I. Duthie, Dr Alice Walker, Professor J. C. Maxwell and Professor Peter Ure. The aim throughout has been to provide the modern reader with the closest possible approach to what Shakespeare wrote or intended and the earlier volumes have been from time to time revised in the light of new knowledge or maturer consideration.
- * The Paperback New Shakespeare is a photographic reprint of the original setting, unabridged and in its latest revision, with the type enlarged for greater clarity. It offers a unique combination of scholarship, completeness, comprehensiveness, readability and price.
- * The New Shakespeare is also available in cloth bound volumes.
- * The New Shakespeare, recorded by the Marlowe Society of Cambridge and professional players, is available on long-playing records issued by the Argo Record Company of London (U.S.A. : London Records Inc).
